

Award-winning Author & International Speaker Innovates, Motivates, and Inspires!

Thank you for ensuring that our Matan Institute conference ended with a bang! My only complaint is that we didn't meet you sooner! So glad that we were introduced. You are OUTSTANDING!
~ The Matan Institute

Just got home from attending your presentation and I must say you are amazing! Your energy, passion and love of what you do was truly present tonight. Special thank you to Sherri from the Spotted Zebra for bringing you to Albany!

As the founder of Order Out of Chaos, a coaching and consulting firm specializing in chronic disorganization and student issues, Leslie brings more than a decade's worth of professional experience working one-on-one with her clients to her speaking engagements. Known for her content-rich and interactive presentations, she uses her "Tales from the Trenches" and trademark "Triple T's" (tips, tools and techniques), to untangle such complex and emotionally-charged subjects as Kicking Procrastination to the Curb or Time Management Skills for Teens to name a few. Whether making a keynote address or leading a workshop, members of parent and professional groups, all come away from Leslie's appearances better equipped to understand and meet the challenges confronting them.

A respected expert on ADHD and executive functioning in students, Leslie Josel has conducted workshops and keynotes internationally for many groups and organizations, including The Matan Institute, Morgan Stanley's "Family Forum" program, and the American Association of Diabetes Educators.

10:00PM: Don't You Have Homework to Do? Organizing and Time Management Strategies for Student Success - Leslie will open the door to the world of organization and time management, what it really means, why they are life skills and not just school skills and why your student doesn't get it. Learn innovative and out-of-the box tips, tools and techniques that provide guidance for parents looking to help their student understand, develop and implement these essential life skills.

Late, Lost & Lagging Behind: Demystifying Executive Functions - Executive function skills are so connected to how our students learn and act. Leslie will break down Executive Functions and explain how they control EVERYTHING we do. She will explain how they affect our students and provide practical strategies and solutions to help conquer organization, time management and focusing weaknesses.

Kick Procrastination to the Curb: Tools to Get You or Your Student Unstuck and Started - Leslie will delve deep into the different types of procrastination, how "mood" is one of the leading causes of procrastination and how techniques like "time travel" and "define and assign" can help you get unstuck and started. She will share real solutions and strategies to help your group or your student initiate, sustain effort and use their environment for motivation.
