

Award-winning Author & International Speaker Innovates, Motivates, and Inspires!

With her energy, engaging wit and common sense approach, Leslie has won over audiences from coast-to-coast. As the founder of Order Out of Chaos, a coaching and consulting firm specializing in chronic disorganization and time management issues; Leslie brings more than a decade's worth of professional experience working one-on-one with her clients to her speaking engagements. Known for her content-rich and interactive presentations, she uses her "Tales from the Trenches" and trademark "Triple T's" (tips, tools and techniques), to untangle such complex and emotionally-charged subjects as Kicking Procrastination to the Curb, Time Management Skills for Teens or Living in a "Clutter Culture" to name a few. Whether making a keynote address, leading a workshop or moderating a panel, members of parent and professional groups, associations and companies all come away from Leslie's appearances better equipped to understand and meet the challenges confronting them.

"Thank you Leslie! You were an amazing speaker and moderator, a hard task to do. You are also very inspirational to all the parents and female entrepreneurs!"
~ Maggie, Cornell Entrepreneur Network

Leslie is an award-winning author, internationally-acclaimed speaker and an award-winning entrepreneur. She is the creator of the award-winning Academic Planner: A Tool for Time Management®, and the author of "What's the Deal with Teens and Time Management". (People Tested Media, 2015) She brought "Order Out of Chaos" to life from a very personal mission. She is the mother of a teen with ADHD and other learning challenges. She founded her company with the mission of providing professional time management and coaching services, and family education to others. Her educational products and books are created for individuals to help bring "order out of chaos" to their lives.
